ABOUT INSTITUTE OF INTERNATIONAL POLITICS AND ECONOMICS

Institute of International Politics and Economics from Belgrade (IPE) is one of the oldest institutes in South Eastern Europe. Since it was established in 1947, IPE has had a special place in the academic life of the country. From a small group of researchers who laid foundations of the Yugoslav science of international relations, the Institute has gradually turned into the largest scientific institution of this kind in our country and one of the most reputable research centres in the world. Up to the present day research in the fields of political, economic and law sciences have been in the core of its activities. IPE studies the processes and phenomena in the field of international politics and economics, this also including legal aspects of international relations, which are of interest for the position and foreign policy of the state. Providing a research and documentation basis for defining the country's foreign policy priorities, for many years IPE has assisted the authorised bodies in creating and formulating the strategic directions in establishing and developing foreign political and economic relations. In its long research practice the Institute has established close co-operation with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. It has recruited a large number of diplomats and officials for the diplomatic and some other significant services that deal with international relations. IPE is considerably different from other institutes in the country for the above mentioned role in pursuing the foreign policy.

Since its foundation, international co-operation of IPE is a very significant part of its activities. It has developed regular or occasional contacts with many research, university and other scientific institutions and think tank organisations in many countries of the world. Its forms include international scientific conferences, roundtables, bilateral talks, exchange of visits, study visits, lectures by prominent foreign guests, courses for diplomats and post-graduate students, participation of IPE associates in conferences held abroad, exchange of study papers and publications, etc. The IPE associates have participated as experts in the state and other delegations in numerous international conferences and meetings of the international organisations such as the UN General Assembly, the Special UN Committee for the Study of the Principle of International Law on Friendly Relations, the International Law Commission, the International Law Association, ECOSOC, GATT, UNESCO, FAO, etc.

For outstanding achievements and contribution to the study of international relations, as well on the occasion of the 70 anniversary, by the decree of the President of the Republic of Serbia, No. KOPR 19 of 9th of February 2017, Institute of International Politics and Economics was awarded the Sretenje Medal.
